Braces for Kids

The types of issues braces are designed to correct can occur at any age. So, a patient is never “too young” or “too old” to explore this form of treatment to get that perfect smile they’ve always wanted.

It's a good idea for your child to see an orthodontist when they start to display any of the specific dental-related issues that braces are actually designed to correct including things like crowded/crooked teeth, overbites, and more.

Invisalign for Kids

You may be surprised to hear that Invisalign now offers treatment for kids! Invisalign First, the kids version of Invisalign are designed specifically for younger patients with a mixture of baby and permanent teeth.

Invisalign is easy for children because they can still brush and floss their teeth and eat as they normally would. They just pop out their tray beforehand and back in when they're done. Easy, effective!
